TO HELL WITH THE PACIFISTS!

The sinking of three American ships by the Kaiser's undersea murderers and the loss of more than a score of American lives should change the water in the veins of the "peace-at-any-price" weaklings into red blood.

Uncle Sam has turned the other cheek to Germany so often that had he the heads of Hydra he would not have a cheek that remained unsmitten, and yet there are yet un-Americans who cry that after enduring the countless slaps in the face Uncle Sam should turn to Germany and humbly ask to be kicked.

To the efforts of the pacifists we owe the reputation that America has earned abroad as being a nation of men too cowardly to fight to defend their rights. If the pacifists were consistent they would be anxious to join this fight for peace; for the crushing of Germany means lasting peace for the world.

From out of this awful carnage and destruction will arise a new and world-wide democracy. This war is the last forlorn hope of the theory of the divine right of kings, and in the readjustment that peace will bring the idea that gave birth to this nation—that all government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed—will displace the divine right theory and crowns in Europe will be no more. That the crown-oppressed people have seen the light is evidenced by the successful revolution in Russia. While fighting on the side of freedom Russia was, until a few days ago, the most absolute monarchy in Europe. Fighting against Germany she was governed by a ruler who was seven-eighths German and whose pro-German advisors were enabled to almost nullify the power of the nation. But the patriotism of the people was aroused and the Czar was deposed and Russia is now a democracy fighting for the establishment of world-wide freedom.

It matters not what the immediate incidents were that started this fighting, the underlying and real cause of the war was the conflict between the principles of democracy and absolutism. The two theories of government are so irreconcilably opposed to each other that both can not exist side by side, and one must push the other off the earth. The conflict and the final struggle was inevitable, and it could only come by bloody war because absolutism exists only through its military power. Nothing save the absolute, cringing surrender to absolutism by democracy could have prevented this war.

And this surrender is what the pacifist is asking this nation to do. Germany, the typification of military absolutism, say to America: "Keep off the high seas." And the pacifist cries: "Let's obey." If that little body of patriots in 1776 had "obeyed" George III that document, the Declaration of Independence, would never have been given to the world as the cornerstone of the political freedom that has brought humanity to higher ground. But even then they had pacifists, only they called them "Tory" and "traitor" in those eventful days.

The time for urging peace has passed. Germany has been at war, actual war, with us for more than a year. Our President has patiently worked and planned to keep us out of the sanguinary conflict. He has even borne with calmness the accusation of cowardice in his efforts to keep us out of war, but his efforts have been fruitless. Pacifists have caused us to be accounted cowards abroad and Germany kicks us as though we were, and since America has elected to defend herself war is only a matter of days. Even before this is printed actual hostilities may have begun, and in time of war the country needs the moral support of every citizen, and less than the desire for the triumph of American arms is treason.

Even the most craven of the pacifists knows that we are forced into the war against our will, that we fight only in self-defense, and all carping and criticism in times like this is, to say the least, is unpatriotic. The co-operation of the man at home is as necessary as that of the man in the field, and the man who questions the righteousness of his country's cause in war is lending aid and encouragement to the enemy.

Personal and political liberty was born in America, and it is America's duty to defend it. There has never been a moment since the crushing of Belgium that the United States could not have entered the war on the side of the Entente Allies in good conscience, and almost daily new reasons have been presented that make her entry a necessity. Gallant Frenchmen and unconquerable Englishmen are fighting to perpetuate our liberty. Shall we let them fight the battle alone? We have the biblical prophecy that some will "cry 'peace' when there is no peace."

Since our country must fight, let the fight be swift and victorious, and let no man who loves his country falter in his support or cry "peace, peace," until the banner of a victorious democracy spreads over the globe, insuring freedom and lasting peace to all mankind.

In this stress to cry "peace" is treasonable.

Taulbee Answers Abbott.

A few weeks ago W. T. Abbott, editor of the Morehead Mountaineer, took a long-range shot at G. C. Taulbee, of this town, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 91st Legislative district. Mr. Abbott took exception to a certain part of Mr. Taulbee's platform—that part which relates to the repeal, or modification, of the dog-tax law. In last week's issue Mr. Taulbee answered the Mountaineer editor in his own paper, and that answer is good reading. If the readers of the Courier can get a copy of the paper containing it they ought to read it. We would reproduce it in full but lack of space forbids. Mr. Abbott ignores all the things in Mr. Taulbee's platform which are undeniably good and casts the whole in the scrap heap because he disagrees with him on the dog-tax question. It is our opinion that if George Taulbee had been a Republican, living in a Republican district, and seeking the nomination for Representative, Mr. Abbott would not have been so severe in his criticism. It is useless to speak of the Mountaineer's attitude in the matter if Mr. Taulbee were the nominee of the Republican party, running upon the same platform.

However, Taulbee's reply in the Mountaineer is sufficient and convinces the reader of his sincerity. Just how much space a newspaper published outside of the 91st Legislative district is willing to devote to knocking a candidate from that district the future will tell.

Good Citizen passes Away.

Lee Ferguson died at his home on Little Caney Creek near Greear, the 15 inst., after a brief illness of measles. His condition was not thought to be serious at first and he had gotten able to be out and suffered a relapse from which he was never able to rally. He was 42 years old the 15 day of July 1915.

No man in the county was better known to the people of West Liberty than Lee Ferguson. For the past eight or ten years he had been huckstering in this town and his semi-weekly visits were almost as regular as the days of the week. His name was a synonym for honesty and fair dealing. He would go a mile out of his way to pay a creditor a nickel. He was of extremely quiet and retiring disposition. When he had transacted his own business "finis" was written on the next line.

On the whole, Lee Ferguson was one of the very best citizens of Morgan county. He will be missed, not only by his family and relatives, but by all with whom he came in contact.

Surviving him are his widow, who was a Miss Gibbs before her marriage; four daughters, Fern, Edna, Victoria and Kate; his father, Eld. John L. Ferguson; three brothers, Geo. W., of Umatilla, Fla., Harlan and Kelly, of Grassy Creek; two sisters, Mrs. Curtis Elam, of Index, and Mrs. Joe Candiff, of Carlisle.

Funeral services were conducted at the home by Elders J. L. Ferguson and L. A. Music, of the regular Baptist church, of which he was a consistent member.

Interment took place in the family graveyard near the residence, Friday.

Acts of War Committed

A Good Term of Court.

Several days before the date for the beginning of the March term of Circuit Court there was an effort made by a number of well-meaning citizens of this town, and by some who do not live here, to get Judge Gardner to postpone the session until some date later in the spring. The Courier was asked to join in this movement but refused to do so, believing that it was unwise and inexpedient. The argument put forth was that an epidemic of measles and smallpox existed here, which was to a certain extent true, but not to the extent that the people who had business in Court were endangered by coming here. Measles was prevalent in nearly every part of the county and there was more smallpox in other sections than in West Liberty.

The Court was held and a condensed statement of the business transacted will best answer the question as to whether Court should have been postponed until either of the busy months—April or May.

The term only lasted eight days but in that brief time the following business was transacted:

The Grand Jury returned 63 indictments, as follows: murder 3, housebreaking 1, false swearing 2, injuring public property 1, selling spirituous liquors 26, giving to a minor 2, disturbing a congregation 2, breach of the peace 7, gaming 6, carrying concealed deadly weapon 3, assault and battery 1, deserting a child 1, having liquor in possession for purpose of sale 3, adultery 3, furnishing liquor on election day 1, neglect of official duty 1.

There were 50 commonwealth cases disposed of and more than $1,100.00 in fines assessed, of which amount approximately $1,000.00 was paid and the remainder replenished.

That was not a single defendant sent to jail for the non-payment of a fine.

On the civil docket there were 7 common law cases and 46 Equity cases disposed of during the latter part of the term.

Taken as a whole it was one of the best terms of Court ever held in West Liberty and vindicates the wisdom and justice of Judge Gardner in declining to postpone the session.

All Hope of Peace Abandoned

U. S. To Go U-boat Chasing

We've Done Our Hitch In Hell.

I'm sitting here a-thinking of the things I left behind, And I hate to put on paper what is running through my mind.

We've dug a million trenches, and cleared ten miles of ground, And a meaner place this side of hell, I know, is still unfound.

But there's still one consolation—gather closely while I tell— When we die we're bound for heaven, for we've done our hitch in hell.

We've built a hundred kitchens for the cooks to stew our beans,

We've stood a hundred guard mounts, and cleared the camp latrines,

We've washed a million mess kits; and peeled a million spuds,

We've rolled a million blanket rolls, and washed a million duds,

The number of parades we've made would be hard to tell, But they'll not parade in heaven, for we've done our hitch in hell.

We've killed a million rattlesnakes that tried to take our coats,

And shook a hundred centipedes from out our army socks.

We've marched a hundred thousand miles, and made a thousand camps.

And pulled a million cactus thorns from out our army pants.

And when our work on earth is done our friends behind will tell,

When they died they went to heaven, for they did their hitch in hell.

When the final taps is sounded, and we lay aside life's cares,

And we do the last parading up the shining golden stairs,

And the angels bid us welcome, and the harps begin to play,

And we draw a million canteen checks and spend them in a day—

It is then we'll hear St. Peter tell us loudly with a yell,

"Take a front seat, Third Kentucky, for you've done your hitch in hell."

—A Third Kentucky Private in Courier-Journal.

Care of Sitting Hen and Eggs.

It is less trouble to care for sitting hens when they are confined in a separate pen away from the layers. The floor of this pen should be of earth, dug up and moistened. The nest boxes should be placed around the sides, and there can be 25 in front of the nest and the hens to 15 inches square and about the same in height is suitable for the

Three American Ships Sunk

Torpedoed Without Warning

Twenty Americans Citizens Drowned

A state of war exists between Germany and the United States. No formal declaration of war has been issued, but Germany is committing acts of war upon American shipping and the United States will hunt and destroy the submarines and war between the two countries actually exists. Three American ships were sunk last week without warning and more than twenty lives lost. Congress will meet immediately and a formal declaration of war will doubtless follow.

In the meantime the land forces of the Allies are gaining brilliant victories over the Germans, the extent of territory captured increasing with each drive.

The people of Russia have successfully revolted, dethroned the Czar—who was in sympathy with Germany—and established a republic. The end is in sight, and the end means the substitution of democracy for autocracy in Europe.

nest. Remove the top, front and bottom. Cover the top with a burlap sack to provide ventilation, and nail a wooden strip 4 inches wide across the front at the bottom. Have a wide board to lean against the open front and a brick to keep it in place when it is necessary to confine the hen.

Fill the bottom of the box level with the top of the four inch board with moist, garden soil, and hollow the soil like a saucer, so the eggs will not roll away from the hen and become chilled. The surface of the earth should be smooth and hard to allow the eggs to roll. Cover the earth with a little straw, and put in a few common eggs.

Remove the sitting hen at night. Dust her with yellow insect powder, or grease her with 33 per cent. mercurial ointment, and then place her quietly on the nest and shut her in.

The next evening, when it is growing dark, dishes of whole grain and water should be placed alone and do not return until after dark. If the hen is on her nest and is contented, she may be given the sitting of eggs you have selected for her.

Feed the sitting hens at the same hour each day. Give them whole grain (whole corn is best) in a dish, so they can eat all they desire. Even under the most favorable conditions for feeding, a sitting hen will lose about three-quarters of a pound in weight during the three weeks of incubation. If there are many sitters in the pen seven or eight should be fed together, removing any that do not leave their nests. Replace the hens in 20 minutes. The doors of the nest are closed except at feeding time.

Examine the nests while the hens are feeding, and if any eggs are broken the remaining eggs should be washed in warm water and the nest cleaned. Moisten the earth around the nest frequently, and on the eighteenth day of incubation immerse the eggs in warm water (105 degrees F.). This softens the membranes inside the shell and results in a greater percentage of chicks hatching.

TELL US WHO THEY ARE.

The campaign for nominations for the various county offices is now fairly on. Formal announcement of candidates for the more important offices have been made and are now running in this paper. Some of the offices require the services of deputies while others do not. From time out of mind it has been the custom in this county for candidates to "run deputies." That is, those who are to be deputies in the event of a certain candidate's election are selected before the primary in which the nominations are made, and, to the everlasting discredit of local politics, it must be acknowledged that the deputies are not always—not often is a better term—selected because of their qualifications or efficiency. The truth of the matter is that the thought uppermost in the minds of most candidates for county office is: "How many votes can he command?" Qualification and efficiency are made subservient to "political pull." In modern politics the man with a half-dozen brothers, an equal number of uncles and an army of cousins and other more distant relatives looms large in the estimation of the average candidate when he goes beating the brush for a suitable deputy for this or that precinct. It is a matter of little moment whether the prospective deputy possesses the first mental or moral qualification he must be able to deliver a certain number of votes. He may be a lawbreaker himself, but that doesn't amount to much if he only has the "pull," for pull is what the candidate most desires. And right here let us add that many a man has been pulled into office by a horde of deputies who, had he made his race upon his own merits, would never have gotten within a league of the goal.

It is unfortunate for Morgan county that this state of affairs exists, but we are optimistic enough to believe that conditions along this line are getting better. We believe that candidates nowadays are more careful in the selection of the men who are to help them conduct the affairs of the office than they were a decade ago. That they realize the fact that the people are not so easily bought and sold by means of the deputy system as they were a few years ago. For it is a fact that the practice of running an army of deputies is the worst form of political corruption with which we are confronted today.

The practice of running deputies before the primary, and before the general election, is wrong to begin with. A deputy should never be selected until after the election, and then the officers would be free to appoint men who were qualified.

But unfortunately this is not the case. The candidates will run their deputies as of old. And since this is true we would suggest that they be selected from among the best citizens of the county; that no more be selected than are actually needed to perform the duties of the office, and that the names of those selected be published so that the people may know for whom they are voting. If deputies are to take part in the primary and perhaps decide who the nominees are to be the people have a right to know who they are. In fact the people are demanding that this be done and are not going to look with favor upon the candidate who refuses to do it.

SOUTH STAMPER FOR SHERIFF.

In last week's Courier appeared the announcement of B. S. Stamper, of Sellers, for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Morgan county. South served the county as Sheriff at one time, having been elected to fill out the unexpired term of M. W. Pieratt. He was fearless and diligent in the discharge of his official duties, and the progress of the courts was never hindered nor delayed by reason of the Sheriff's not having executed the process.

South is a good campaigner, in fact he takes to politics like the proverbial duck takes to the mud puddle, and is never more at home than when in the saddle campaigning. He has a large train of relatives, both by blood and marriage, in the county, and is personally known to a majority of the people. In addition to having been Sheriff he has traded and transacted business over the greater part of the county.

South is a party campaigner as well as a personal campaigner and the Democratic organization always depends upon him to get out the vote on his side of the county. Salem, precinct where he lives, formerly gave a large Republican majority but in recent elections it has been going Democratic by a substantial majority.

South is very determined and thoroughgoing in anything that he undertakes and will doubtless make a whirlwind campaign for the nomination for Sheriff. He promises the people that in the event of his election they will not have to come to the Sheriff's office to pay their taxes, but that he, or one of his deputies, will call upon them at their homes and collect the money due the county and State. He also promises the people that if any of them are indicted for either a misdemeanor or a felony, they will not have to come to town to be arrested—that he, or one of his deputies, will call upon them at their homes and serve the papers.

He further promises the people that if elected his deputies will be selected from among solid, substantial, law-abiding men; that honesty, energy, efficiency, responsibility and allround sterling merit and not "practical politics" will be the basis upon which the selection of his deputies will be made. He promises that he and his deputies will be able to furnish personal bonds, and will not have to pay a trust company a big slice out of the proceeds of the office to execute a bond for them. In brief he promises the people that if they will nominate him in August and elect him in November he will perform faithfully all the duties of the office to which he aspires. The Courier bespeaks for him thoughtful consideration at the hands of the voters in the August primary.

I Am The Unimproved Highway.

I am the unimproved highway. My name is Mud! The foot that pattered in primeval slime gave me birth. Unchanged while the ages passed, I have endured. Time has but served to increase my infinite variety. Earth born, and without a soul, yet have I lived. From the beginning have I been man's enemy. A dust-colored python am I, stretching my length across the hills, waiting my time to crush endeavor. I have snared caravans that left bleaching bones in lands now desert. Empires have fallen because of me. I have turned victories into routs; I have trapped mighty leaders and have crushed armies. I am without faith; and those who trust me I deceive. Today I am fair to look upon; tomorrow a steaming bog. I add Difficulty to Distance. With Isolation do I conspire to unjoint the endeavors of man. I tug at the wheels of the grain cart, that bread may be dear. I hamper those who would feed the race. I am an enemy of church and school. I mire the healer on his rounds and delay the coming that little ones may die. I am a disrupter of Home. I speed the firstborn to the cities when I am fair to see; and when he would return I face him with my forbidding depths. I minister to Bitterness; and lay a tax on all the world. There is none who lives who does not pay me tribute. When men ploughed with a crooked stick I was there. When the ancients covered me with stones I slipped away to other lands. I am the oldest Lie that lives today. Men count me cheap. I know the price they pay who count me so. I am the unimproved highway. My name is mud!—By H. G. Andrews, in Jackson Times.

Fit the Cow to the Farm.

Before any farmer decides on the breed of cattle he will keep he should decide on what he wishes to keep them for. The farmer living several miles from a market and with a large farm will usually find beef cattle more to his needs than dairy cattle. The man who wishes to keep only two or three cows to supply milk and butter for his family, and who expects to get his cash returns from the sale of calves, will generally find one of the dual-purpose breeds the best for him. The man whose business is dairying cannot afford to think of beef returns except as one of the little incidentals of his business.

Many a dairyman has ruined his business by the use of a beef bull, hoping to get calves that would sell for more without reducing his supply of milk. There are numerous neighborhoods in which the calves rather than the milk should be the main return from the cows but in which Jersey bulls are making the calf crop poorer every year. Numbers of farmers are trying to get both milk and beef by crossing cattle of the beef type with cattle of the dairy breeds.

All these things mean loss to the farmer. The dairyman who breeds his cows to anything but a pure-bred bull of one of the dairy breeds needs a term at school. The man who takes a dairy bull into a beef cattle neighborhood should have rocks and eggs and things thrown at him. The problem of the all-around farm cow is still a hard one to solve. The best solution, theoretically, is the keeping of the real dual-purpose cattle, such as the Red Polls or a milking strain of Shorthorns. Often, though it is not practical to get cows of this kind, and then the farmer must do just the best he can. In many cases the best thing would probably be to change his plan of farming a little and go in for either milk or beef.

The Small Farmer Can Raise Prize-Winning Animals.

Not long since we ran across the very interesting story of an Indiana hired man who had saved up a few hundred dollars, which he invested in a registered Belgian mare. This mare proved to be an exceptionally good brood mare, and two of her colts were good enough to win prizes at state fairs. She paid back her cost several times over in the run of a few years and gave that hired man the satisfaction of standing along with the most successful breeders of his state. The secretary of the Percheron Association of America writes us that the first prize two-year-old stallion at the Iowa State Fair this year was bred by a man who keeps only four or five mares and does his farm work with them. Numerous other prizes have been won in Iowa and other states by men who own only two or ten mares and are general farmers, and not breeders only. The same thing is true with all breeds of live stock.

Just as good animals can be produced on a small farm as on a great estate. It is only a question of having the right kind of foundation stock, of giving them the proper care, and then of acquiring the knowledge of how to mate them so as to intensify their good qualities and correct their defects. This knowledge seems to be instinctive with some great breeders, but it can be acquired to a certain extent by any man who knows good stock and is willing to make a study of his animals and their individual traits and breeding.—Southern Agri-culturist.

Hog Worm Remedy.

A good remedy for preventing worms in hogs is three pounds glauber salt, three pounds common salt, four pounds charcoal, one pound sulphur, three pounds copperas and three pounds sodium bicarbonate. Mix and keep in a self feeder or trough in a dry place where the hogs can have access to it at all times. Hogs that are particularly free from worms are much harder than hogs that are badly infested with worms. Being harder, they are more resistant to other diseases common to the hog. So hogs should be kept free from worms if they are to be most profitable.

Thirty Pieces of Silver.

United States Senator Kirby, of Arkansas, has received thirty pieces of silver from thirty citizens of Jonesboro, a town in that State. The contributors each gave a dime, and along with the total remittance they sent a note in which he was told that by filibustering in Germany's behalf he had earned the money as faithfully as did Judas Iscariot.—Toronto Mail Express.

Scanty Diet.

The Roman soldiers, who made such wonderful roads and carried a heavy weight of armor and luggage, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular and constant in exercise. The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats chiefly black bread, onions and watermelons.—Exchange.

A Thoughtful Office Boy.

The office boy, says a writer in the London Sketch, looked at the persistent lady artist, who calls six times a week, and said firmly: "The 'editor's still engaged.' " "Tell him that doesn't matter. I don't want to marry him." "I haven't the heart to tell him, miss. He's had several disappointments today."

GREAR.

Flem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shade Perkins, died at the home of his father, near Centerville, Wednesday of tuberculosis. He leaves a widow, who is suffering with the same disease at the home of her father.

A little daughter of Cleveland Ferguson died of croup last week.

Mrs. Lou Brown, who has been visiting friends in Ohio, returned Friday. She is now with her son, Russell Brown.

N. E. Grear has gone back to work at Hazard.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Grear were visiting her father, Mr. Perry, of Blaze, last week.

Fill Gose sold a nice little saddle horse last week for $130.00.

Con and Granville Fugett, who have been down with measles, were able to visit their sister, Mrs. Harlan Ferguson, on Grassy Saturday night and Sunday.

TULIP.

WRIGLEY.

(Too late for last week.)

Asa Blair, who has been attending school at Morehead, came home Saturday and returned to school Monday.

Mrs. J. W. Lewis and little daughter, of Wrigley, spent the day with her sister, Mrs. Morton Lewis, Sunday.

Mrs. G. W. Pritchard went to Loveland Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fraley recently removed away from this place. They had lived in Wrigley five years. The people regret to see them leave.

Sam Lewis, of Blaze, was here Monday on business.

Miss Myrtle Lewis was shopping in Wrigley Saturday.

Roy Lyton was here Saturday on business.

Andrew Ellington, of West Liberty, was here Saturday on business.

Asa Blair and Miss Arma Caudill went to Loveland Sunday.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Lewis is still improving and is thought will be up in a few days.

Mrs. Arma Lewis, of Yocum, spent Saturday night with Mrs. Morton Lewis.

Till Lewis, of Blaze, was here last week on business.

Local and Personal.

Beverly Walsh, of Mordica, was in town on business Monday.

Born to the wife of Smith Elam, of War Creek, March 13, a boy.

F. M. Hutchinson, of Alice, was in town on business last week.

H. C. and Everett Pelfrey, of Alice, were in the city on business Tuesday.

Willie Davis and Herbert Hammond, of Forest, were visiting in town Saturday.

Jas. Adams, of Netty, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. John Dennis, of near town.

Haden Lykins, of Bangor, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Lykins, recently.

Willis Carter, of DeHart, was in the city Tuesday with a load of country hams for sale.

W. C. Taulbee, of Insko, transacted business and visited his nephew, G. C. Taulbee, here Tuesday.

Victor Wells, who has been working in Cincinnati for several months, came home Thursday of last week.

Miss Ella Burkhart, who has been in Middletown, O., for several months, returned home a few days ago.

Eld. Bruce Adkins, of Elliott county, visited his daughter, Mesdames Will Wells and Henry Colvin, last week.

Dink Litteral, of near town, is in a serious condition with a relapse of measles, but is thought to be slightly improved.

Dr. S. R. Collier returned Monday from a month's sojourn at Leesburg, Fla. The doctor says that the late freeze killed about 400 of his young orange trees and that several of the older ones are damaged to the extent that they will have to be replaced by others.

H. W. Cottle, of War creek, was in town Tuesday. He told us that almost his entire family were just recovering from measles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kendall are visiting his sisters, Mrs. Steve Pieratt, of Mt. Sterling, and Mrs. W. T. Perry, of Winchester.

D. J. Wheeler, of Paintsville, an attorney and oil man, was here the first of the week looking over the oil situation in this county.

I have a nice line of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Spring Hats. I invite the ladies to call at my home and see them.

Mrs. T. B. STURDIVANT.

W. K. Lane, of Lexington, State agent for the National Life Insurance Co., of Montpelier, Vt. was in town several days recently in the interest of his company.

T. H. Johnston, of Forest, called at the Courier office while in town last week and renewed his affiliation with the Courier family.

Joe Tom Carter, of De Hart, was in town on business last week. Mr. Carter informed us that the bridge at Mussel Shoals was now open to the public, but that there was some work yet to be done on the approaches.

Misses Florris McClain, of Alice, and Xan Link, of Lenox, were the attractive guests of Mrs. H. M. Cox Thursday of last week. The young ladies accompanied by Mrs. Cox paid the Courier office a brief but pleasant visit while in town.

T. N. Barker, of Crockett, was in the city on business Saturday. Mr. Barker told a representative of the Courier that the prospects for a railroad through his section were good, and that he believed the road would be extended on through West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Steele, of Columbus, O., arrived last week for an indefinite visit in the county. Their little son Carl is in very poor health—is thought to have tuberculosis—and they came here with the hope that the change will do him good.

W. H. Smock and Newton Doremus, of Red Bank, N. J., are here this week. They are jointly interested with G. I. Brown, also of Red Bank, and Dr. S. R. Collier in the oil business in this county. They have a great deal of undeveloped territory upon which wells will probably be drilled this spring.

A Profitable Investment.

Making a good home garden is one of the vitally important means of cutting living expenses on the farm and thus increasing the amount of profits. It has been shown that more than 80 per cent of the food consumed by the farm family can be grown in a garden of reasonable size.

I always select for my garden the richest and mellowest spot of soil which is conveniently near the house. The rows run the long way so as to allow using a plow with minimum trouble. If a disk harrow is available the land should be disked before breaking, and then disked two or three times afterward, applying manure before each disk, if it is possible to obtain it. In an old garden, of course, this harrowing need not be done, but manure should be applied before breaking. The writer makes it a point to deepen the soil of his garden each year.—Southern Agriculturist.

Stunned By Lightning.

On Friday of last week while Mrs. W. A. Caskey, of near town, was getting supper, lightning struck the kitchen flue, knocked out a brick and ran down the flue into the kitchen. Mrs. Caskey and two little boys were standing near the stove. Each were slightly stunned but experienced no ill effects afterward. The paper on the wall was damaged to some extent.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that George Salyer, convicted of confederating at the March term, 1916, of the Morgan Circuit Court, will make application for a parole at the April meeting of the Board of Prison Commissioners. (Signed) GEORGE SALTER.

Why I am A Candidate

Every candidate who announces his candidacy for an office ought to be able to state to the people the reasons why he is a candidate for that office, and his statement should be the TRUTH.

In announcing my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for County Attorney of Morgan county I deem it proper and expedient to state the reasons that impel me to make the race.

In the beginning I will say that there has been no great number of influential citizens urging me to run. I have few relatives in the county. I am a candidate because I believe that I can efficiently discharge the duties of the office, and because of the salary.

Eight years experience as County Attorney of Menefee county and twenty-four years experience as a practicing lawyer are two of the reasons I urge.

But, in order to give my reasons in detail, and because my present job requires six days labor each week, I have departed from the usual custom of the formal announcement and have contracted for advertising space in which I shall each week give reasons why I feel that my election will prove advantageous to the taxpayers.

I labor six days each week, as most of you do, and cannot make a thorough canvass of the county, but I have an abiding confidence in your wisdom and integrity and feel that every voter desires to elect the man who will render them the best service.

County officers are your hired men. In electing them you are hiring them for a specified task. You should be as careful in hiring them as you are in employing the men who do any other work for you. In succeeding issues of the Courier I will endeavor to tell why I believe that I will be your acceptable hired man as County Attorney.

And this belief is based upon the knowledge of what I have accomplished in a like capacity in an adjoining county. In that county we paid all expenses for six years on a levy of 30 cents on the hundred dollars and a poll tax of 50 cents.

I favor good roads and public improvements, but hold that for every dollar of public money expended the public should receive a dollar in actual value.

In succeeding articles I will show how hundreds of dollars annually can be saved.

If you agree with me and conclude that I will make you a safe, sane and sober County Attorney, write me a few lines of encouragement. I will appreciate it.

Yours for better county management,

L. T. HOVERMALE.

Obituary.

Drexel, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Anderson of Adele, died Thursday morning, March 8th, of Acute Indigestion, after an illness of about five days. He was eighteen months and nine days of age, and was an exceedingly bright, lovable child. He was stricken while at play on Saturday the 3rd inst., but was not considered at all serious until the following Monday when grave complications set up and he began to sink rapidly. Doctor Wheeler of Lee City who had the case in charge summoned Doctor Wheeler of Caney, and they resorted to every method known to medical science to give the little fellow relief but their efforts were in vain. The frantic parents then called Doctor Hurst from Jackson, who arrived at Noon Wednesday and joined the Drs. Wheeler and all three of them labored until they saw further efforts were useless. The little fellow grew gradually worse until death came at fifteen minutes of nine o'clock Thursday morning. His suffering was intense almost to the moment of his death. His little body was laid to rest in the private cemetery of the Taulbee family at Adele, where many of Mrs. Anderson's people are buried. A large concourse of friends followed the little white casket to the grave, amongst them a great number of children who knew and loved the child during his brief life. The grief of the young parents was pitiful to see, both of them being so shocked and prostrated that they had to have the attention of a doctor. Drexel was their only child and was simply worshiped by them both. The "COURIER" extends its sympathy to them in their hour of grief and points them to a higher power for solace, where—

From belt to belt of crimson seas, On leagues of fragrance streaming far, To where in yonder orient star A million spirits whisper, "welcome,"—"peace."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one devoted disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Saturday Concert

at the

Phoenix Hotel

On account of the great number of oil producers and coal operators that spend the week end at the Phoenix Hotel, a musical concert will be given by the Phoenix Orchestra each Saturday afternoon from 4 until 8 p. m.

Miss Hogarty will arrange a special program, and Mr. Bruce Reynolds, who is considered the greatest violinist in the South, will play a number of solos.

The Phoenix Hotel greatly appreciates the patronage of the mountain people from the South-east and Big Sandy sections of the State and will endeavor to make their visits to Lexington as pleasant as possible.

We have a few copies of Col. J. T. Hazlerigg's Centennial Historical Address left and we are going to give our readers a chance to get a copy at a figure below the actual cost of production. This booklet contains the only authentic history of Morgan county ever written. Col. Hazlerigg was a master in the art of diction. No one can read this masterpiece of his without gaining inspiration therefrom.

They will, in all probability, never again be reprinted. Your children will treasure them as priceless heirlooms. We are closing them out at 25 cents per copy—get one while they last. Address
